Why You Need a Machine for Food Display Cards

Labelling standards for all products in the food industry have to have their labelling updated as of the 25th of February to comply.

New rules governing labelling allergens:

New rules for labelling allergens

On 25 February 2021, new rules about labelling and identifying allergens were introduced by Food Standards Australia New Zealand (FSANZ). The new Plain English Allergen Labelling (PEAL) rules will make it easier for consumers to identify what allergens are in food and to help them make safe choices.

Here's a summary of what to do under the new rules:

- | | | |
|--|--|--|
| Use required allergen names | List allergens in bold font | Use mandatory contains statement |
| Use individual nut names of the 9 specified tree nuts | Use 'fish' or 'mollusc' or 'crustacea' as appropriate | List 'wheat' as a separate allergen to 'gluten' |

When do the new rules start?

- | | |
|---------------------|---|
| 25 Feb 2021: | New rules were made
Businesses can choose to either comply with the existing allergen labelling rules or the new rules. |
| 25 Feb 2024: | Labels must be updated to meet new rules, and businesses must have trained their staff so the information they give customers meets the new rules.

Any food packaged and labelled before this date, under the existing rules, may be sold for a further 2 years. |
| 25 Feb 2026: | End of transition so all food and drink sold in New Zealand must comply with the PEAL rules. |

Don't get caught out, make sure your display food cabinets have food grade plastic cards with allergy description printed on them.
